After the last page of claims, insert on a new page the following Abstract:

A laminate including a skin plate made from steel and a shaped layer. The skin plate has an outwardly facing side and a side which faces towards the shaped layer. The shaped layer has a side facing towards the skin plate and an outwardly facing side. The shaped layer is substantially a shaped steel plate, which shaped layer is joined to the skin plate and forms passages and/or cavities together with the skin plate. The passages and/or cavities are optionally connected to one another. A polymer material creates the bonding between the skin plate and the shaped layer. The laminate may be provided with a second skin plate to form a sandwich material.
